
BRAINBOOST INVITATION

A strong mindset in a time of technological change

– A talk by Hardeep Dhanjal –

Technology is developing at a pace we have never seen before – not least within AI – and companies are in the midst of a shift where customers have new demands and processes need to be rethought. But before any transformation can succeed, one thing is crucial: Mindset.

How we as leaders and employees mentally and emotionally handle change largely determines whether we can succeed in a time marked by uncertainty and new opportunities.

In this BrainBoost, Hardeep Dhanjal will take you into the inner thoughts and feelings that may arise in relation to change – and provide concrete tools to address these mental challenges. You will gain inspiration on:

- How leaders can understand and address uncertainty within their teams
- How to prevent doubt from turning into a fixed mindset
- How to create a positive and change-ready culture
- Hardeep aims to create a positive atmosphere in the room and equip you with the tools to embrace technological development – rather than fear it.

We hope you would like to join us for this inspiring session on developing a strong mindset in a time of technological change.

Registration is via the link in the email.
