
BRAINBOOST INVITATION

Are you prepared for war and crisis?

Talk and conversation with disaster researcher Rasmus Dahlberg

Politicians are encouraging us to be able to manage three days without electricity, water or internet. But how much do you actually need to have on the shelf – and what are realistic scenarios for Denmark?

Researcher and author Rasmus Dahlberg brings together two decades of experience with war, crises and emergency preparedness in a sober and action-oriented talk on societal security and crisis preparedness – the art of being ready without panicking. What should you do as a citizen and as a company – and what can you safely leave to others who have it under control?

What will you gain?

- Overview of the current risk and threat landscape in a Danish context
- Status of emergency preparedness and societal security in Denmark, the EU and NATO
- Practical recommendations for working with preparedness in your company
- Approaches to strengthening resilience in leadership and collaboration when systems fail

Practical information

Date & time: Thursday 5 February 2026, 09:00–10:30

Venue: ConsilioNexus, Exxit 59, DTC Torvet 20, 7100 Vejle

Format: Presentation followed by Q&A and plenary dialogue

Target group: Decision-makers, leaders, emergency and security managers, and anyone with an interest in resilience in practice

Registration

Via the link in the email. There is a limited number of seats – first come, first

Regards,

Jens Brabrand

CEO

ConsilioNexus

—  —
CONSILIONEXUS